To see a new world, it is upon them to create a company that innately fosters a community where awareness and understanding is the unspoken rule. At TheList they not only change the way you make your reservations, but also improve the quality of your lifestyle.

The position

We are currently seeking a Senior Backend PHP Engineer for various engagements in our client's Athens office.

You will join an inspiring and curious team of technologists dedicated to improving the design, development, testing and analytics that goes into creating innovating, high quality software. Coming in with an understanding of the importance of end-to-end software development such as agile frameworks is key.

We are looking for a Senior Backend PHP Engineer who has extensive experience with PHP development. You should feel comfortable gathering requirements, architecting, designing, and building modern web applications end-to-end.

Your profile

To be qualified for the job, you must possess the following skills and requirements:

- 5+ years of experience with platforms with an API focus (PHP preferred)

- Full stack capabilities, understanding of technology stacks required for API driven projects (LAMP/MAMP stack preferred)
- Balanced skills with persistent data storage in both relational SQL (MySQL or similar) and noSQL respects
- Experience with OAuth/OAuth2 or similar
- Experience in writing tests such as PHP unit tests and/or automated API testing
- Experienced with creating API Specs and software documentation (Swagger/Postman)
- Experience working within agile development teams
- Understanding of source control methodologies (Git Flow) on development projects in a collaborative setting
- Must thrive in a fast-paced environment and demonstrate the ability to complete tasks within tight deadlines
- Must have initiative and display a strong ability to multitask and prioritize tasks
- Dedication, strong work ethic and a compelling interest in digital marketing and data science
- Passion for and proficiency in lean product development, agile and Kanban.

Nice to have

- 1+ years of experience with AWS/Azure or similar cloud solutions
- Deep understanding and hands-on experience in PHP Symfony or similar frameworks.

Our Client offers

In case you are selected for the specific position, you will access to the following:

- Potential for growth at a highly backed, fast growing company
- Work with the latest technologies & modern Agile methodologies
- Very competitive compensation, depending on one's experience
- Annual bonus, stock options
- Commute expenses, relocation assistance
- Flexible working hours, work-from-home policy
- Be part of a company that values your effort, work and you.
