

Brepols Publishers is a medium-sized international academic publisher, specializing in research for the humanities. We publish historical sources and academic research in areas such as history, patristics, philology, archaeology, and art history, and our portfolio encompasses books, journals, and reference works, which are made available in both print and digital formats, and as traditional and open-access publications. Our broad range of publications are released under our different imprints: Brepols (history); Corpus Christianorum (text editions); Harvey Miller (art history); and BREPOLiS (online databases).

Brepols reaches a global clientele consisting of specialized libraries, academic institutions, and individuals. Our publishing house has its headquarters in the historic Begijnhof of Turnhout (BE) and we also have an office in Thessaloniki (GR), together with colleagues in France, Australia, and the USA. More information can be found at www.brepols.net

To strengthen its team in Thessaloniki (Pylaia) and contribute to its dynamic business plan, Brepols is seeking a

Bibliographic & Metadata Editor

Your Role

As bibliographer & metadata editor you will be responsible for locating appropriate publications, preparing bibliographic records, correcting publication metadata, assigning keywords, editing or updating legacy material, supervising external contributors, and liaising with an international team of specialists. Topics will cover European history, theology and religion, and other fields in the humanities.

What to expect

- An interesting job in a unique cultural, scholarly, and technological environment.
- Joining a growing and dynamic organization of a renowned publisher with worldwide recognition in the academic world

Interested?

Please send your CV and a letter of motivation to Paschalis Tsomakas (Paschalis.Tsomakas@brepols.net) by 14 March 2025.

Profile

- A relevant MA in history (preferably medieval or early modern European history) or theology and religious studies (including history of religion)
- A broad knowledge of European history and cultures, across countries, periods, languages, and disciplines
- Very good command of English and German; knowledge of French, other European languages, or Latin will be an advantage
- Familiarity with PC applications (Word, Excel); some knowledge of XML or databases will be an advantage
- You will be a very accurate, systematic, and efficient team player
- Editorial experience or proofreading skills are an advantage

Tests are scheduled in Thessaloniki on 19 March.

Interviews will take place on 26 or 27 March.

(Please indicate any dates then when you would not be available.)