About the Hospital

Our University Hospital NHS Foundation Trust is a Teaching Hospital, linked to the London University and is also the Cancer Centre for South Essex which is part of the Essex Cancer network. This busy DGH serves a population of 338,800. They currently employ about 4,500 wte staff with a total complement of 190 Consultant staff.

The laboratory services are within the Diagnostic & Therapeutic Clinical Directorate. Cellular Pathology is a fully integrated department providing a comprehensive surgical pathology service, including diagnostic cytopathology, an autopsy service, breast and cervical screening services. The current workload is in the order of 21,000 requests per annum, 10% of which are from general practitioners. A wide and interesting range of biopsy material is submitted for examination, a substantial proportion of which is diagnostic work for the Trust's Cancer Centre. There is a well-developed immunohistochemistry service to support the diagnostic process, which is responsive to increasing demands from the Clinical Oncologists.
